Andrew Harper's Hideaway Report

{TRAVELING THE WORLD INCOGNITO FOR 30 YEARS}

Readers' Favorite Hotels, Resorts & Hideaways

Our 27th Annual Survey of Sophisticated Travelers

OUR ANNUAL READER SURVEY is by far the longest-running and most reliable poll of its kind among affluent and sophisticated travelers. Nearly 65 percent of this year's respondents typically vacation for at least 30 days annually, and despite current economic uncertainties, 51 percent say they plan to travel more this year than last.

In the U.S. City Hotel category, the top seven properties, astonishingly, placed in identical order to 2007! Once again, we see the high esteem in which The Peninsula group is held by Hideaway Report readers, with three hotels in the top 10. Despite having just 70 rooms, The Lowell in New York rose four places in the rankings to No. 8.

In the International City Hotels category, the Four Seasons George V in Paris and The Stafford in London were ranked first and second, respectively, for the third year in a row. In the case of The Stafford, neither the retirement of legendary hotelier Terry Holmes, nor the recent addition of the new Stafford Mews (which increased the number of rooms to more than 100) seems to have had any effect on the hotel's enduring popularity.

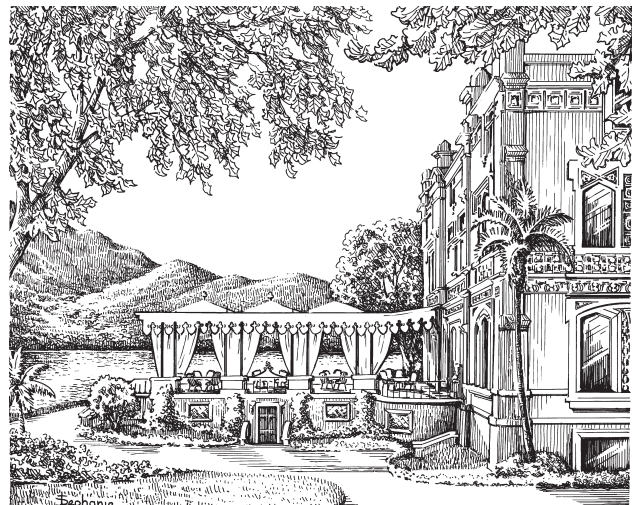

Among U.S. Resorts, the refurbished San Ysidro Ranch in Montecito, Calif., continues to ascend the rankings, rising four places to No. 8. Similarly, The Cloister on Georgia's Sea Island, which has been entirely rebuilt at a cost of more than $350 million, took second place, just behind the perennially popular Blackberry Farm in Tennessee.

The uncertainty that long surrounded the future of Cap Juluca on Anguilla has predictably resulted in its omission from the Top 20 International Resorts. It is, however, reassuring to see classic Italian properties such as the Villa d'Este continuing to do well.

The U.S. Hideaways category likewise contains many familiar names, but it is interesting to see newcomers such as Winvian in Connecticut and Poetry Inn in the Napa Valley making their first appearances. Among the leading International Hideaways, we can only note the enduring affection felt by Hideaway Report readers for Amanresorts in Bali and Thailand.

The genius behind Amanresorts, Adrian Zecha, also invented The Regent hotel brand in partnership with another great hotelier, Bob Burns. Mr. Burns celebrated his 80th birthday in July, and it is therefore fitting that his incomparable property, Villa Feltrinelli, should be voted our No. 1 International Hideaway of 2008.

No. 1 International Hideaway 2008, Villa Feltrinelli, Lake Garda, Italy
